A seed is an embryonic plant enclosed in a protective outer covering . The formation of the seed is part of the process of reproduction in seed plants, the spermatophytes, including the gymnosperm and angiosperm plants.. Seeds are the product of the ripened ovule, after fertilization by pollen and some growth within the mother plant. The embryo is developed from the zygote and the seed coat ...

ONLINE COVER To determine how North Africa's climate has evolved over the past millions of years, experts have studied dust flux records from marine sediments. These long-term records are based largely on fluxes calculated using age model-based mass accumulation rates (MARs). However, this method suffers from many potential biases, including limited resolution.

Seed dispersal is the movement or transport of seeds away from the parent plant. Plants have very limited mobility and consequently rely upon a variety of dispersal vectors to transport their propagules, including both abiotic vectors such as the wind and living vectors like birds. Seeds can be dispersed away from the parent plant individually or collectively, as well as dispersed in both space ...
