1. Writing Copy That Sells: The Law of "Mass Desire"™ Drawing from Schwartz, let's start with a simple definition. Another word for "mass desire" is emotion: "the public spread of a private want." An ad's ability to sell begins and ends with identifying a "private want" and then channeling that want into "public" words.

Writing Copy That Sells: The Secret to Breakthrough Words

The fundamental difference between simple copy and complex copy is the word "one." Everybody wants their sales copy to close. But until you've got a short, specific, and (above all) singular goal, it won't.
