The passage in Acts 1:8 literally reads: "Ye shall receive the power of the Holy Spirit coming upon you," so that the Anointing or Enduement of Power is that experience which is the result produced by the Holy Spirit coming upon the believer and equipping him for service. Such Anointings are only received in the soul-agonies of deep travailing prayer.

Yet when the sixteenth-century mystic John of the Cross identified and described a kindred phenomenon "a sort of desolation called "dark night of the soul" he insisted that it is an important spiritual discipline. We enter the dark night, said John, as a tortuous but fruitful ascetic path to the mystical goal of union with God.
