You're Grounded Till You're Thirty What Works What Doesn't In

So, a few weeks ago I referenced the Points List that a mother used when her kid got grounded. Basically, the mother created a list of things her child could do to get off groundation, each task attached to a certain number of points. Once the child reached 500 points, they were done being grounded.

TJ loses points for the behaviors we want to discourage, and once he reaches the 15 point mark, he loses his electronics until he works off the points with one of the activities (mostly chores). At this point in time, it doesn't make sense to ground him from playing outside with his friends - fresh air and exercise are good.
